Cancer Imaging Program

The mission of the Cancer Imaging Program (CIP), National Cancer Institute, is to promote and support:

- Cancer-related basic, translational, and clinical research in imaging sciences and technology, and
- Integration and application of these imaging discoveries and developments to the understanding of cancer biology and to the clinical management of cancer and cancer risk.

Visit the official CIP website to learn more.

Related Pages

- Biomedical Image Archives
- CIP TCGA Radiology Initiative
- NCI-CDISC Imaging CRF Project

